

Yian, Fintan

Some time ago you were entrants in the selections for the Trial of the Pallid Charm. That challenge led to Syn Nighthaven taking on a personal challenge from the Heralds of the Tomb King. One that draws to completion. One that may have affected you.

Ossuary, Herald of Empty One has asked me to arrange for you to meet with agents of the Hungry Wolf, Yaroslav and Amaruq to help them consider the final steps in that challenge.

One or other of you may win the right to visit The Darkest Chamber. Or you may recommend someone else to do so.

Yian, I remember your measured understanding of the fruits of Winter. Would you catch the attention of the Empty One? What price would you pay?

Fintan, you were more naïve. But time has passed, have you grown wiser in suffering?

There is no price, and no danger in meeting with Yaroslav and Amaruq, at least. They have business with House Rakshasa, and so will be in the Dawnish Camp in Anvil, and in Wyse Guise or whatever the bar there is called early on the first evening of the Solstice. If you can, seek them there before 7.

Ossuary suggests that it would be preferred if you did not speak to Syn about this message or the meeting.

Ania of Necropolis
Agent of Sorin