

To Keelin Forðen,
formerly Sweetglen:

Between the years 378-379Y.E. you gambled your way into a number of small debts in the coin-houses of Temeschwar. Following your departure from the city under a cloud during the Vyig purge, these debts were consolidated and passed to an authority with greater reach. The Black Ledger Reckoners of Temeschwar then became your creditors.

However, for administrative reasons, your debt with the Black Ledger Reckoners of Temeschwar has been passed to a third party. We expect them to be in touch at the earliest opportunity, and understand they are heading to Anvil to meet with you.

If you have any further enquiries, please feel free to attend at our offices in Temeschwar: however, you shouldn't hear from us again.

Yours sincerely,

Sanda van Temeschwar
Realms Liaison, Black Ledger Reckoners

To Keelín Foxden,

On the business of the Golden Spider, the Weaver at the Loom of Stars, Good Prince Prospero of the City of Bridges, I approach Anvil to speak with you concerning the matter of a debt previously left in the hands of the Black Ledger Guild of Reckoners, of Temeschwar.

No matter the attitudes of your former creditors, you should not concern yourself with the contents of your pouches. Your debt has been transmuted into a specific service which you are well-placed to perform, and which, once completed, will resolve this matter.

I shall relate the full details of the matter once I arrive at Anvil. I intend that to be on the Friday evening of the Autumn Equinox summit.

In the spirit of productive co-operation,

Verta