Our dreams tell us your first meeting went well, and now you have another - and we are charged with telling you when. It is at Eleven in the evening on the Saturday of the Equinox.

We yield our reward in the Deal to you as we learnt in our travels this season that you are invited to discuss how to use it. Take it with you if you have it already, but worry not if it is not yet made, it won't be used this season, there is much to plan. Are you prepared for your return?

Do not forget you'll need to find your own way into the Hall of Worlds - we will manage a brief visit to Anvil on Saturday afternoon, we have an item that you will need to use to let the host know if you will be attending the meeting, but we have no paupers keys anymore and no autumn magic between us.

We plan to come in the hours between Battle and Senate. If this doesn't suit instead you can send us a Winged Messenger confirming that you have found a way to enter the Hall of Worlds and we'll pass the message on.

If you fail to send a message either by taking the item from us and using it by 8 on the Saturday evening of the Solstice, or by messaging us before we head into the centre of Anvil, the chamber will not be opened for you later. He doesn't like to wait.
