

Pavuk

The Golden Spider applauds the ambition in your goals.

It is true that the Lord of the Loom is the richest in magic of all the City Lords and if any of them were to be able to affect an entire Nation at a time in the way you wish it would indeed be him.

But that power is not within this realm, he believes. Not without Amity and perhaps not even then.

He does offer however a boon of Autumn that would boost the production of mines producing ambergelt, green iron or weltsilver in any single Territory of Varushka.

The boon would come in two parts.

The first, an Arcane Projection to boost production by 5 resources per mine

The second, an item that provides power so the cost of the ritual is reduced

To gain the first part you must perform this favour for The Golden Spider

See a Statement of Principle raised either by the Ambition Assembly or by the Assembly of Nine in support of Prospero's offer to the Empire whereby if all Bourse seats are placed in the hands of the Nations, great Autumn boons will be granted

To gain the second part you must campaign to see Conclave sharing magic with Jarm. If you are successful in persuading the Empire that they can convince the Jarmish to relinquish slavery by making them stronger partners in magic rather than weaker ones then the second boon is yours.

You will need a sheet of Herald's Notepaper so that you can notify us in the City of Bridges of which territory you have chosen.

Look for Raphaela von Holberg – who is likely to be found in the Hub from mid evening on the first night of the Equinox or Kseniya Sloev - who is likely to visit Varushka but at a time not yet known.

May you be rich in favours and friends
