

Gremani family!

Between the ninth and tenth hour after noon on the first night of the Summer summit – tonight in fact! - when the sun has fled and the sky is full of stars, the Brother of Wizards will make his way to the hidden threshold of the Imperial regio in Anvil. From there, the Toad King will converse with any magician who can use the cantrip of opening to open the gate.

The Father of Bats intends to speak with the Grandmasters of the six orders, and offer them an opportunity to gain his aid for the Conclave and the Empire. Hopefully, they will prove more inventive than the damn archmagi!

It is the request of the Black Sloth that the Gremani family herald his arrival at the regio through the medium of song. The Eater of Secrets would request that the Gremani family attend the regio and perform a short medley of music appropriate to the pleasant and avuncular nature of the Custodian of the Mammoth-Bone Tower.

So that Patricia Negra can hear and enjoy the power of the Gremani singing, he requests that as many of the family as can spare the mana perform the cantrip of portal opening at the beginning of their performance. This will allow the music to echo through the place between realms, and serve as a delightful beacon to draw the Watcher in the Deep Abyss more quickly to the hidden threshold.

In recognition of the skill, talent and hard work of the Gremani, the Dark Lord offers payment in the form of the first bottle of golden applejuice – the Empire has delivered so much of Meraud's stolen fruit that this season's vintage promises to be quite potent.
