

Gralka Skywise

Vate of Day

My thanks again for your assistance in Mourning Hollow. We have not seen ghosts near the Wayhouse since you came, and the "temple" seems to be quiet once more.

I hope that you are well, it must be nice for your people to have a homeland for the first time. I can't really imagine what the feeling must be like, but I hope it brings your people some sort of stability and allows all your people to find a new place in the great dance.

I bring you word of the Tall Pines Striding. Although, they were obviously working with Cerys (or Gorowac as we now know she was) hindsight is a wonderful thing.

Scouts say that they took something from the lake, and headed North East. They followed them but lost them in Skarsind. We think they are holed up in the woods to the South East of Gldenheim. I'm worried about this item and think it could be something they could use to make Gorowac powerful again. Selfishly, I'm worried about her wanting to have vengeance against our Wayhouse, but I also don't think it's good for your peoples to have her followers building up strength in Skarsind.

If you can get to the Raven Woods in Gildermark you may be able to stop them and to recover the item

May your journey be purposeful

Cerys Darkhaven
