

Beggars' Lot

Up to 6 people may play by paying a minimum of 1 throne to the pot.

Play begins as soon as the players enter the space with the rules document, and ends after 15 minutes. A bell will signify the end of play.

Players must unanimously agree to give the entire pot to one player.

The agreement is marked by signing the bottom of this document.

If the document does not contain every players' signature at the end of the 15 minutes, the pot rolls over to the next game.

This agreement is overseen by the Lictors.

The pot:

Player signatures:

Beggars' Lot

Up to 6 people may play by paying a minimum of 1 throne to the pot.

Play begins as soon as the players enter the space with the rules document, and ends after 15 minutes. A bell will signify the end of play.

Players must unanimously agree to give the entire pot to one player.

The agreement is marked by signing the bottom of this document.

If the document does not contain every players' signature at the end of the 15 minutes, the pot rolls over to the next game.

This agreement is overseen by the Lictors.

The pot:

Player signatures:

Beggars' Lot

Up to 6 people may play by paying a minimum of 1 throne to the pot.

Play begins as soon as the players enter the space with the rules document, and ends after 15 minutes. A bell will signify the end of play.

Players must unanimously agree to give the entire pot to one player.

The agreement is marked by signing the bottom of this document.

If the document does not contain every players' signature at the end of the 15 minutes, the pot rolls over to the next game.

This agreement is overseen by the Lictors.

The pot:

Player signatures:

Beggars' Lot

Up to 6 people may play by paying a minimum of 10 thrones to the pot.

Play begins as soon as the players enter the space with the rules document, and ends after 15 minutes. A bell will signify the end of play.

Players must unanimously agree to give the entire pot to one player.

The agreement is marked by signing the bottom of this document.

If the document does not contain every players' signature at the end of the 15 minutes, the pot rolls over to the next game.

This agreement is overseen by the Lictors.

The pot:

Player signatures: