

Prosperity First!

I am Ximen i Suerta i Guerra, the hero of Cerevado, and I write to you as a great hero of the Empire! I own the greatest casino in Cerevado, indeed, in the Brass Coast! But something is missing: something grand, something beautiful. In short, something permanent.

See, I have all this weirwood and nothing to do with it! Why does the Senate keep private citizens from building great works all for themselves? I can only imagine the hoops they must have made you building all your new buildings in Skarsind! What a legacy you have made for your people, so worthy!

And now it is time to reap the rewards! Yes, you could become the most valued customer of the finest casino in all the Empire! Just you wait till you see the spirit of the Freeborn people at first hand! I know how you people love to keep all your old stuff around and tell stories about it – well, just you wait till you have stories of your fine new Freeborn silks to tell!

Thrill in the music! Enjoy the dancers! Turn your hand to the game of hazard, learn the hundred different variants of backgammon, and bet on any number of games and sports performed for your entertainment, from archery to skittles, contests of skill and dance, displays of beautiful magic! I want you to come and see how a Freeborn master does entertainment, and then decide if you want to invest.

Get me a Senate Motion, or a Wayleave, and you will never pay for anything at the Senators' Palace, I guarantee it.

Looking forward to our meeting already!

Ximen i Suerta
