

Greetings to you, Oswi, Ambassador from your Empire to the Principalities of Jarm.

I will keep this brief as I am sure you are a busy magician. I thank you for your time and endeavours at the last summit. While I will not be able to travel to Casinea for the forthcoming solstice, I will issue the following memorandum as a summary of what matters we had underway as of the equinox, and I hope you will find the time to help in ensuring that each of these matters continues to proceed apace, for the prosperity of us all.

First, a trade of rituals under limited conditions between our nations was discussed with Ambassador Erikttho - a single ritual text to be sent each way, provided to and limited to a single coven in the other nation, then returned once learned by that coven. This summit, I would expect a Winged Messenger to be sent to myself to indicate which of the rituals offered by the Magician-Prince was desired to be traded for, for delivery at the following summit. Equally, I would exhort that a text of whichever ritual is chosen to be sent by the Empire in exchange (I believe the Magician-Prince was particularly interested in Bound by Common Cause, but the list should still be in the hands of those with whom it was discussed) be arranged to be created at this summit, as it can then also be sent at the following summit, thus ensuring a minimum of delay in both partners in the deal benefitting from the exchange.

Second, the trade of a dose of true liao in the form of a past life vision in return for Measure, the shield-relic of the Wisdom of the Way, which I believe we discussed briefly with a Senator Earl Rondell of Dawn briefly as the Cardinal of Wisdom was not herself present at the time. While the Magician-Prince in question originally asked for a dose of true liao with no further stipulations, I was told later that there might be the possibility for a deal if the dose was given in the form of a past life vision here in Anvil, which she would have to travel here for, rather than simply handed over and sent overseas. I can confirm that the Magician-Prince would be entirely willing to come to Anvil for such a vision as the trade for the return of Measure to the hands of the Cardinal of Wisdom. If you could continue to pursue this matter with the relevant people, I would be most thankful. The sooner such an agreement can be come to, the sooner Measure can return to the Empire.

Third, the trade of realmsroot in return for a payment of crystals and a stipend of money to the Golden Pyramid Order of the Conclave, as long as certain stipulations are met. I believe there was interest in this from the Grandmaster but that it might take some time to acquire the realmsroot needed. Please remind the Grandmaster of this and that the deal is most certainly still on the table.

Fourth, the construction of a villa near Tassato to serve as a waystation for Jarmish merchants attending the mana exchange, for which materials and construction would be paid for by the Jarmish merchant consortium proposing the notion. I understand that this was delayed due to the limitations on your Empire's construction and surveying corps under the pressure of many other demands on their time. Nonetheless, the League Senators who heard of the matter seemed interested, and I would appreciate if you could follow up on this further so that our mutual business at the mana exchange can generate even greater prosperity for both parties.

I believe that my superior will likely also be contacting you on general ambassadorial matters.

Please do not hesitate to contact me with the Winged Messenger ritual. I will seek to be swift in responding.

With regards,

Trade Minister Boteslaw of the House of Princes
Aide to Magister Anton Trescher of the Hidden Hook
