Patches i Riquesa,

Please find enclosed your order from us last summit. I wish to add that we had a slight hiccup in our trade of Blue Lotus last summit, and as such have made substantial changes to the recipe. The doses enclosed have quite a different effect to the recipe we used at the Summer Solstice, but we're sure you'll enjoy the new recipe just as much! (and your militia are far less likely to take issue with it as we understand...)

Thanàte Sangwine,

You have struck the attention of my Lord, the Prince of Despite, as of late. Your associates have found themselves meddling in issues long past, sealing deals with questionable forces.

Their actions strike me, as they may strike you, as unwise at best and foolhardy at worst. Betray them, Thanàte. Make their foolishness public, work to undermine them. I shall reward you if any word of their undoing reaches my or my Lord's ears.

Of course this is no deal like theirs. You owe me no debt. I offer a simple gift if you please my Lord: a weapon from his personal armoury.

Yours in anticipation,

Shiv

Servant of the Unicorn Prince

Morrigan Mortère,

We met close to the end of the Summer Solstice. I told you of my patron, who could offer you protection from the forces which have acted against you as of late. I agreed to arrange a meeting.

The time is set. I shall meet you by the Sentinel Gate shortly before 8:30pm on the Saturday of the autumn equinox. If you understand what I mean by this, bring some hospitality. Come alone.

The unbeaten path awaits,

Vladimir Indirovich

Lord Romande Remys,

I write to you from the old House du Cercle. The House has been haunted by restless spirits for as long as I can remember, but recently one such ghost has changed completely in its appearance and behaviour. It is asking to speak with "Lunete du Cercle" or one who knows of her business.

I believe that when we yeofolk came to Anvil in the winter, it was yourself who took on Lunete's burden? It seems appropriate, then, to invite you to the House to speak with this ghost.

There is a conjunction to the House at 10:15pm on the Friday of the autumn equinox. I will be too busy with my duties to meet you there, but I hope you find something helpful in this invitation.

*Yours in Virtue,
Jeanette Steward
