

Arcus

Thank you for understanding our interests and taking charge so strongly of the hunt for the Drake. Whilst it is never a good thing to return from a fight with casualties, we can rejoice in the knowledge that we - albeit with the help of greater numbers than just a true sodality of Venatores Ilustres - slew a Drake. Your organisational skills were clearly remarked. We hope we made as strong an impression on you, and that perhaps in future you will consider a path with the order. For now though I write only to plan a meeting for future quests.

Laurel and I, together with her cousin Adiran, who we have recruited into Jaufre's place in the Order, intend to come to Anvil and meet our friends in The Forge at half past eight on Friday evening of the Equinox. Together we can talk about whether any conjunctions offer potential to further our quest. I have invited Roger du Soleill who you will have met during the preparation for the Drake fight and Gregor de Rondell too, from your own Nation also Lucian of Ephermeris who was at a wedding when we fought the Drake. If each of you brought a friend or two along we should be a merry group - and can always move from The Forge to a more comfortable location once we are all gathered.

Yours,

Lady Heliabel Lionsgate
