

Archmage!

In the name of the Iron Duke I greet you.

I enjoyed our time together last Solstice. I hope it will make a difference in castings of the ritual.

In the name of the Lord of the Crossroads I seek your help again. I have written to all challengers telling them to ask for me at The Shattered Tower at around nine on the first evening of the Equinox. I know that because of your conclave this will not be convenient for you. But I hope you can do one of two things.

Either ask your siblings to make me, and those who come to seek me welcome at their tables. Or if you fear that we will be too many people in your space I thoroughly understand. Will you hire us somewhere to be and then have notes and people in place at your camp so that we can be found. There are about a dozen current challengers but I do not think they will all come at once.

I am sorry that I could not arrange this so you could be present to hear all their tales – perhaps there is one new to Anvil you could assign to meet me and listen and report back to you.

I will pass by Conclave if it is not over when I am ready to leave

Until we meet
