For all our discussions over niggling details, I always honour a deal in the spirit it was intended.

You raised the Declaration, and therefore I have 10 pouches of warm ashes to give you, and you bypassed all risk of the negative consequences I warned you about if the Declaration were not to be raised.

Of course, you will not earn the further 20 pouches for a successful motion based on the result – I am sure there was not enough time to even begin to rally the votes to get the motion to pass.

If this is the extent of your ambition, perhaps our dealing is done, but if you'd like to consider further the benefit of working with The Golden Prince, then do seek me out and perhaps we can discuss a new deal.

I expect to make a base in the centre of Anvil mid-evening on the Friday of the Equinox, and then leave word at the Hub where I am to be found.

May you be rich in favours and friends
