

LOSS OF THE LEGACY

A little over a fortnight after the Spring Equinox, the Grendel forces in Spiral mobilize. They strike north without warning through the Ossuary. They hit the Legacy hard and fast, taking the defenders by surprise. It is quickly overwhelmed – the Urizen forces there are either slain or captured, and by the time reinforcements from Fort Mezudan are able to mobilize, it is already too late. The sentinels from the Fist manage to rescue only a few escapees, escorting them north into Zenith.

The Grendel quickly plunder the Legacy, and leave a significant force behind to defend it.

However, they are not able to conquer it quickly enough to prevent at the majority of the mithril being sent north. Unfortunately, they catch the final shipment before it is able to make it across the border into Zenith, and six wains of mithril are lost to the Grendel army.

Even more unfortunately, with the Legacy in the hands of the Grendel, you have lost your seat on the Imperial Bourse.

Until the Legacy is recovered, you will receive no more mithril and will be expected to give up your seat on the Private Auction.