

Raewynn Farkas

Grandmaster of the Rod and Shield

Thank you for the loyalty shown to my cause by you and your Order. I trust that the ritual I have sent you will be of good use to the Empire I have two things I must ask of you. The first is that there is a banquet of the Summer Courts' - I grant you an invite to come as my guest and take a seat at the table. This invite maybe given to another member of your order if you prefer, but I would be honoured if you could attend.

The second is that the opportunity to fulfil your promise to make sure that the Summer College is kept safe so none of the knowledge learnt in this college is not given to the enemies of the Empire. Come to the Regio at eight tonight with seven other members of your order and my herald will take you through to a summer realm Be prepared for combat, and only those with the Arcane Mark of the Rod and Shield will be allowed to travel through easily.

I look forward to speaking to you at the banquet.
