

A few days ago you woke up in the night with dire nightmares, your eyes are dripping blood and as you wipe away the blood you see visions through the haze, visions of a series of cells in a cliff face being broken open and foul Druj performing rituals in those caves. A dire mist starts to spread down the cliff face and as you see it spread over the highborn you feel yourself grow in strength. A strange feeling of power that you realise that you can gain the power and strength from other's weakness.

Role-playing Effect if applicable:

- You feel filled with the ability to cause fear in others. You feel an impulse to cause fear in others so you may gain power and strength over them. You also feel an impulse to challenge those who try to stop you causing fear to others.

Mechanical Effect: if applicable:

- The demonstration of Fear
- Anointing of Fear (level 5)
- You may respond to a roleplaying effect that creates fear by becoming angry instead. This means that you can resist the effects of the miasma that is over Reikos.