

To the Magnificent Serena,

I realise that you must get a lot of letters from admiring fans, and I do not mean to burden you again.

I have heard rumour that the necklace was captured in Therunin by bandits, near the Navam way house of Bronwyn's Rest. I do not thin the Navam were behind such an attack, but they may have news. Alternatively, the goods were going to an Urizen Spire. I do not know if they got there or not.

I know that you must have more important things to do than run errands, even over such a historic item, but if you could, maybe, find one of your people to look into it then we could have the biggest celebration when we open a grand work and present this necklace to the Empire.

I look forward to hearing from you

I remain your greatest admirer
